Commentary

The Honiara Consumer Price Index for June 2007 slightly increased by 0.2% from 350.7 in May to 351.3. The rise was predominantly due to increases in the prices of petrol and kerosene, offset by a slight drop in the average price of local food sold at the Honiara Market.

The price of petrol rose on average from $6.26 to $6.60, whilst that of kerosene increased from $6.80 to $7.22 per litre in June. These were due to a general increase in the wholesale price of fuel during the month.

The average price of market produce marginally dropped by 0.3%, mainly on account of a decline in the price of Kumara heaps (from $2.55/kg in May to $2.30/kg). This has outweighed increases in the prices of other local food notably Chinese cabbage (up 11% to $11.42/kg) and spring onions (up 24% to $23.18/kg) to result in the moderate monthly increase in overall market prices. It has been noted that Honiara Market prices were largely influenced by supply.

Annual inflation, measured on a 3months moving average basis as at the end of June was 5.6% compared to 6.7% in May and 9.6% the previous corresponding month. The inflation rates for imported and domestically produced items were 7.4% and 4.6% respectively.
